MEMORANDUM FOR ALL FAS SITES

SUBJECT: FAS Computer Replacement

We have been inundated with requests for additional or replacement workstations. As of now, DESC can only replace older current systems if they become inoperative and even then only when it is absolutely necessary for several reasons. First, our inventory has been depleted and DESC is now in the process of procuring additional new computers to take care of the urgent requirements. Due to manpower limitations at this time, we are in the process of establishing the priorities for FAS based on our requirements for testing to go live, the services unplanned capitalization requirements that are requiring our support and the manpower necessary to provide and set-up replacement (new) workstations. Based on this drain on our manpower resources for these efforts thru May 2000, request your cooperation and patience in submitting requests for replacement computers. Each of the services need to keep a list of their needs and submit only the urgent requirements during this period of time. In the event we can start the replacement earlier, without detriment to our schedule, we will notify you and do so.

WILLIAM L. BELL
FAS Program Manager
